Court costs apply to convictions on or after January 1, 2020, no matter the offense date.

Fines and reimbursement fees apply to offenses committed on or after January 1, 2020.¹

(For offenses committed before January 1, 2020, the fines and fees to be assessed are the fines and fees in effect on the offense date.)

Existing law requires an ability to pay determination at sentencing. While a law may require assessment of a court cost, fine, or reimbursement fee, judges retain the authority to reduce or waive any court cost, fine, or reimbursement fee.

Information relating to an overdue payment expires two years after it has been provided and it may not be used again to refuse registration. In other words, do not use the same information to refuse registration more than two times after it has been provided or received, if the information relates to a past due fine or fee. Also, information regarding other fines and fees that become past due during the two-year period after information has been provided (thereby initiating a refusal) cannot serve as the basis for another refusal before or after the initial or existing refusal. See subsection (b-1) for further clarification. Finally, if the court provides notice to the county assessor-collector that the court has waived the underlying debt due to the defendant's indigence, the county may not charge this fee. See § 502.010(j). A request for an Attorney General's opinion regarding limits on the use of information to refuse a vehicle's registration is pending. Please see RQ-0297-KP for details regarding the request. <https://www2.texasattorneygeneral.gov/opinions/opinions/51paxton/rq/2019/pdf/RQ0297KP.pdf>.
